

#Overpopulation

As the world's population reached 7.6 billion this year, it is transparent that resource limits and environmental degradation is becoming more apparent every day. It is predicted that resource scarcities such as oil are likely to become an impediment to future economic growth. Approximately 220,000 babies are born every day and about every 11 seconds a baby is born in the United States. Unlike in the past where this was seen as a sign of flourishing, it has become detrimental. As a result, it has lead to discussions about placing policies and incentives to limit growth in the government.
